LINDAL launches flexible new actuator for highly viscous products

Germany – 1st July 2024

Global aerosol dispensing leader, LINDAL Group has launched Glide an adaptable new actuator for dispensing highly viscous products within the industrial and technical sector.

Created and developed to work with LINDAL's Bag-on-Collar and LinRoc systems and compatible with its A6000 valves, Glide can be used with three different types of nozzle.

The first is the LinRoc nozzle which offers a more controlled application of silicones and adhesives. The second is the Nylon Hair, suitable for greases and pastes and featuring a removable brush. Glide's third applicator, the Plastic Brush, is also ideal for paste and grease dispensing and its injected mono material can help improve recycling.

Each of Glide's nozzles offers easier application of grease and paste-based products and includes a special overcap to protect the valve when the actuator is not in use. Designed expressly for highly viscous technical product applications, Glide will be available as a standard product in LINDAL's actuator portfolio.

Group Marketing Manager, Kashif Choudhry, says: "In response to long-term requests from customers and their particular interest in the more effective dispensing of greases and other paste-based products, we are delighted to launch Glide. As a flexible and innovative solution, it is a valuable addition to our wide range of actuators for the industrial and technical sector.”
